A Void by Georges Perec - Goodreads

A Void. Georges Perec. Harvill Press, 1995 - Fiction - 284 pages. 14 Reviews. A man disappears in Paris and his friends search his apartment for clues to his whereabouts. They also compare notes on what he last said to them. In the process, they come to the conclusion they are all cursed, destined to suffer their friend's fate, disappearing one by one.

A mind-bending novel from the author of Life A User's Manual. A Void is a great linguistic adventure and a metaphysical whodunit, chock-full of plots and subplots, of trails in pursuit of trails, all of displays Georges Perec's virtuosity as a verbal magician. It is also an outrageous verbal stunt: a 300-page novel that never once employs the letter E.

5.0 out of 5 stars Georges Perec - A Void. Reviewed in the United Kingdom on 12 November 2008. Remarkable! Though it is a more an intellectual exercise than an intelligible work of fiction (though, of course it is an intelligible work of fiction, otherwise the exercise would render itself pointless), a Void is delightful and delightfully ...

Perec is noted for his constrained writing. His 300-page novel La disparition (1969) is a lipogram, written with natural sentence structure and correct grammar, but using only words that do not contain the letter "e". It has been translated into English by Gilbert Adair under the title A Void (1994).

Georges Perec - Wikipedia

A Void is an unnerving but insanely compelling work, and one which is rather hard to compare with anything else. It does have some similarities with Perec's later classic Life A User's Manual, but it will never be as popular.

Georges Perec Excerpt - University of Cambridge

Perec was a French writer and a member of Oulipo from 1969 to his death in 1982. Though I have yet to read his other works (novels, play, poetry, and opera librettos, even), it is easy to see why Perec is considered a "literary experimentalist." A Void is a literary feat: it is, in short, a novel written without a single E in its 300 pages.

As easy as ABC: Georges Perec once wrote a whole novel ...

Georges Perec famously wrote a whole novel without using the letter 'e'. Now, in this playful short novel, brilliantly translated by David Bellos, Perec once again dispenses with the normal rules for literary composition, with similarly pyrotechnic results.

Georges Perec - Penguin Books

The 20 th -century French writer was one of literature's greatest eccentrics, famously writing an entire novel without using the letter 'e' (A Void, translated from the original La disparition) as well as a memoir, in which 'e' is the only vowel used.
