Rockwell / Commander 112 - Barnstormers

The Rockwell Commander 112 is an American four-seat single-engined general aviation aircraft designed and built by North American Rockwell starting in 1972. In 1976, they introduced the turbocharged 112TC and a version mounting a larger engine and other minor improvements as the Rockwell Commander 114. A total of approximately 1,000 examples of all models were produced before the production line shut down in 1980. The rights to the design were sold to Commander Aircraft 1988. They improved the i

The company was acquired by Rockwell-Standard in 1958 and changed its name to Aero Commander Inc. in late 1960. The aircraft added fuel injection engines and other modifications to increase performance, resulting in the 1960 introduction of the Twin Commander. With the advent of the small gas turbine engine, the 680 T model was released in 1964, followed by the 690 series in 1971, and the ...

Aero Commander - Wikipedia

It was a rocky road for the Commander singles. A series of model changes ensued and original production ended in 1979. Since then, the design has been in and out of several hands, one pair of which actually produced some 200 updated models during the 1990s. Heres a look at the Commander 112/114 and what to expect and consider when shopping for one.
