What are a Contractor's Rights to an Extension of Time?

If the delay is not caused by the contractor, then an extension of time (EOT) can be applied. This extension of time is a formal request for an additional time period that can make up for delay losses. This is permitted by the law for numerous valid reasons and depending on your contract's time clause. What is more important is that you must inform the other contracting parties about your time extension or you may be in a contract dispute.
