Dr. Bram J. Geller, Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania, 3400 Spruce Street, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania 19104. Critical care cardiology (CCC) is a rapidly evolving subspecialty within cardiovascular medicine. Due to advances in technology and critical care, as well as shifts in the underlying patient population, the coronary care unit that developed in the early 1960s has transformed considerably over the last several decades (1–5).
