READ THIS. A cheetah is innocently lolling in the long grass. All around are buck, apparently unaware of its presence. Then, as hunger takes hold, the cheetah looks for its prey. Immediately the buck break into a stampede and the cheetah gives chase. A NOTE ON THE POET. Information on Charles Eglington is very sketchy indeed. We know that he was born in Johannesburg and worked there as a journalist and a magazine editor.

Charles Eglington - "Cheetah" - Knowledge4Africa

This poem shows the game of chance involved when a predator attacks his prey. The Cheetah looks harmless and awkward like a puppy. He relaxes in the shade but gradually focuses in on scattered herds that have no idea that he will attack them. Gradually, hunger tightens his muscles and he slides along the plain ready to hunt.

English First Additional Language

Cheetah: The cheetah is the fastest land animal. It can reach speeds of 75 mph (120km/h). Although cheetahs are great sprinters, they can not sustain their speed over long distances. Cheetahs are the only existing feline that do not possess retractable claws. Cheetahs are an endangered species, with most living in Africa, although there is also a small population in Iran.

Analysis Of The Poem Cheetah

Today's modern cheetahs can run 60 mph to catch prey. Their ancestors could originally only run 20 mph. There was selective pressure in the environment of cheetahs that demanded for faster cheetahs to catch more prey because there was a battle for survival. There was variation in the ancestral population. Some cheetahs could run faster...
