Meditations at Communion A meditation at communion is when the minister or priest speaks before Holy Communion. It is his goal to distill into a few words as possible the importance of the rite. The meditation is not meant to be a sermon, but rather a way to help the congregation focus on Jesus and the meaning of the Last Supper.

a mother's day meditation At our church last Sunday, on Mother's Day, Judy, a mother herself, shared the following meditation at the Lord's Table. Probably all of us at some time in our lives have dropped a stone into a clear pool of water and watched the ripples spread out, growing larger and larger and larger.

Communion Meditations: A MOTHER'S DAY MEDITATION

Today I will celebrate my fifth Father ' s Day of actually being a father. In January 2010, my first child, Jude, was born. Since then, my wife and I have had another son, Owen, and we recently had third child and first daughter, Ada. I have a great father, and we have a good relationship. So I learned a lot about being a father from him.
