Steve and Susan Zumdahl's texts focus on helping students build critical thinking skills through the process of becoming independent problem-solvers. They help students learn to think like a chemists so they can apply the

and their properties.
Because this approach differs from what most students
have experienced in high school courses, it encourages them to focus on conceptual
learning early in the course, rather than relying on memorization and a

of problem solving
that even the best
students can fall back on when confronted with familiar material.

The atoms first
organization provides an opportunity for students to use the tools of critical
thinkers: to ask questions, to apply
rules and models and
to evaluate outcomes.
