In 1985, Beck and McKeown suggested that every literate person has a vocabulary consisting of three levels (Beck, McKeown, & Kucan, 2002). Tier 1 words consist of basic words. These words usually do not have multiple meanings and do not require explicit instruction. Sight words, nouns, verbs, adjectives, and early reading words occur at this level.

What Does the Research Say About Vocabulary?

Reading 's not just about phonics. There are 5 keys to reading identified in the scientific evidence for effective teaching of reading: phonemic awareness, phonics, vocabulary, fluency and comprehension (See here and here). Of the 5 keys, phonics gets the most attention, and rightfully so. Phonics is the area in which students are most deficient upon entry to school and therefore special attention to phonics instruction needs to be made.
