Every little step your baby makes is amazing progress, and a huge victory in their journey to home - it's important to find joy in and celebrate them. The day their feeding tube is removed, the day they come off oxygen, the day they are 'promoted' to SCBU and you get one step closer to bringing the car seat in. Celebrate inchstones, rather than milestones.

Your baby's skin At birth, the top layer of your baby's skin is very thin and easily damaged. Over the first month, or longer for premature babies, your baby's skin matures and develops its own natural protective barrier. Vernix, the white sticky substance that covers your baby's skin while in the womb, should always be left to absorb naturally.
